Man-In-Space Blast Delayed By Weather

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —CAPE CANAVERAL forced postponement today of America's first man-in-space shot and the chosen astronaut, Alan B. Shepard Jr., must wait at least 48 hours before he takes his rocket ride into the heavens and the history books.

Announcement that Shepard, lean, muscular, 37-year-old Navy commander, had been chosen for the daring adventure came simultaneously with a report that unfavorable weather had spoiled a try this morning to launch him 115 miles into space aboard a Redstone rocket.

The backup astronaut, to take Shepard's place in the 3,000-pound Project Mercury space capsule if he is unable to go when the time comes, is John H. Glenn Jr., 30, a Marine lieutenant colonel.

Shepard had donned his pressure suit and sat in a hangar at the missile test center, sweating out the moment when he would be called to embark on the most thrilling voyage ever taken by an American.

Observers reported that he sat quietly, outwardly calm, and eager to be the man who would challenge the Soviet feat of blasting a man into the weightless void beyond the atmosphere of the earth.

In the coming 48 hours, physicians will keep Shepard under constant surveillance to see how he bears up under the mounting tension. A physical or psychological disorder would sideline him in favor of Glenn, who also will remain under observation in the Cape ready room.

If Shepard still is in good condition, mentally and physically, at the next scheduled launch time, he will remain the choice.

The final countdown began at 12:30 a.m. but prospects were never good. A heavy cloud cover over the Cape and down along the 290 miles of the missile range over which the Redstone was to fly brought frowns to the faces of Project Mercury scientists.

They needed clear visibility so that in the critical moments after the blastoff they could have good visual tracking and be ready to trigger Shepard's escape mechanism at the first hint of any trouble.

While scientists and physicians checked everything from the working parts of the rocket to the functioning of Shepard's heart,

U. S. Airliner Hijacked by Aerial Pirate

Forces Pilot To Fly To Cuba; Wanted to Warn Castro of Plot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An aerial pirate, armed with a steak knife and pistol and flaunting the name of an old-time buccaneer, hijacked an American airliner over Florida Monday and forced it to fly to Cuba.

While seven frightened passengers sat frozen to their seats, the self-proclaimed "El Pirata Cofresi" told the pilot that Rafael Trujillo, Dominican Republic strongman, had offered him $100,000 blood money to assassinate Fidel Castro.

Wanted to Spill Beans But he had no intention of carrying out the mission, he said, because he considered Castro a "good guy" and wanted to "spill the beans" to him.

When the shanghaied, two-engine National Airlines plane landed at an airport near Havana, Castro militiamen hustled the man away to an uncertain fate. Then the plane was permitted to return to Florida.

The FBI and other government agencies pressed an investigation today to determine the real name of Cofresi, and exactly what he was up to.

"El Pirata Cofresi" means "The Pirate Cofresi," a notorious freebooter who sailed the Caribbean and West Indies area in the early 19th century. In buying his ticket here for the scheduled Miami-to-Key West run, the gunman had first given his name as "Mr. Cofresi, Elpir." Then he told the ticket clerk that the letters "ata" should be added to the "elpir."

Had Just Taken Off The plane had just taken off from an intermediate stop at Marathon, a Florida key, when the hijacker went into action.

A slim, unshaven man wearing dark sun glasses and a straw hat, he slipped into the cockpit and placed a knife at the throat of Capt. Francis X. Riley of Miami Shores. Then he pulled out a small, silver-plated pistol and ordered copilot J. T. Richardson of Jacksonville to leave the cockpit.

Taking the copilot's seat and turning off the radio, he said: "Let's go to Havana."

Pilot Riley related: "He kept pointing the gun at me the rest of the trip. He spoke perfect Eng-

Laos War Held Up by Parley

Foes Meet To Plan Cease-Fire Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A truce meeting between a government officer and a Pathet Lao rebel major has brought a provisional end to fighting on the front 45 miles north of here, Gen. Phoumi Nosavan said today.

He reported that the two officers met Monday afternoon and fighting had halted "provisionally and theoretically" by 5 p.m.

Foreign Minister Tiao Sopsasana said the Cabinet was encouraged to hope that the contact could lead to an over-all cease-fire, first step to ending civil war between the Communist-backed rebels and the government forces.

The government's truce emissary went to a point just north of Vang Khy, a town on the front. It was his second attempt to make contact with the rebels.

Top Laotian government and American military officials joined the meeting Monday night, one informed source said.

Prince Boun Oum's Cabinet met in Vientiane today to discuss the situation.

There was still grave doubt in many quarters in Vientiane that a cease-fire would result. Some observers suggested that the rebels have agreed to the battlefield meeting for propaganda purposes.

There was a feeling that the Pathet Lao might lay down conditions for a cease-fire that the Western-backed government would find unacceptable. One likely demand was for the immediate withdrawal of Americans who have been serving as military advisers to the royal regime.

Pulitzer Awards Announced

'All The Way Home' Wins Drama Prize

NEW YORK (AP)—"All the Way Home," a play which almost closed the week it opened on Broadway, is the 1961 winner of the Pulitzer Prize for drama. The play represented the first stage effort of Tad Mosel, 39, of New York, hitherto a television writer. It was based on the late James Agee's Pulitzer Prize novel of 1958, "A Death in the Family."

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for "writing things" since she was 7, the novel was the first work she had ever published. It emerged from a "long and hopeless period of writing—over and over again." The Pulitzer Prize gold medal for public service was awarded to the Amarillo Globe-Times, the first Texas paper ever to win the award.

The medal, the top newspaper award of the year, was for the newspaper's successful campaign to erase corruption in local government. Touched off by editor Thomas Hazzard Thompson, the effort resulted in a law enforcement shakeup and election of a reform slate of officials.

Lynn Heinzerling, 54, of The Associated Press, won the prize for international reporting. Heinzerling, a Birmingham, Ohio, native who has been in foreign service since 1938, was honored for his coverage of Africa including pioneer reporting during the early days of the Congo crisis.

Heinzerling's award raised to 13 the number of Pulitzer Prizes won by Associated Press writers. The AP also has won four for photography.

Wall Street Editor Wins The prize for national reporting went to Edward R. Cony, 38, news editor of the Wall Street Journal, for his "analysis of a timber transaction which drew the attention of the public to problems of business ethics." The transaction involved the Georgia Pacific Corp., the nation's No. 1 plywood producer.

Yasushi Nagao, 30, of Tokyo, became the first foreigner in the 45-year history of the prizes to win the award for photography.

Nagao, of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi, was cited for his dramatic picture of the assassination last Oct. 12 of Japanese Socialist Inejiro Asanuma. It was distributed in this country by United Press International, thus making Nagao eligible for the prize.

The editorial writing award went to William J. Dorvillier, 53, editor and publisher of the San Juan (Puerto Rico) Star, founded a little more than a year ago and owned by Cowles Magazine Inc.

Dorvillier, a native of North Adams, Mass., and a newspaperman for 26 years, won the prize for editorials criticizing the Catholic bishops of Puerto Rico for a pastoral letter forbidding Catholics to vote.

Office Races, School Levy Attract 503

Republicans Out In Strength; 345 Cast Ballots In '59

Attracted perhaps by the mayoralty contest between Atty. Henry L. Reese and Former Street Superintendent Oscar McCammon, Republicans were turning out in heavy numbers in today's primary election, a noon tally of the voting precincts showed.

The total noontime vote—Republicans and Democrats alike—was 503, which was up 158 over the comparable municipal primary tally in 1959.

Two years ago by midday a total of 345 persons had cast ballots and in the odd year election in 1955 the noon vote was a miserable 255.

Interest in the 4-mill school levy renewal also is believed to be helpful in swelling the vote toll today.

The city's 21 precinct polling places are open until 7:30 tonight because of Daylight Saving Time. The three Perry Township polling places also are open for balloting on the school levy because the township is part of the Salem City School District.

The heavy noontime vote contradicted pre-election predictions of a light vote in the city's primary where four Republican and five Democratic contests are to be decided. GOP balloting was especially heavy this morning in Precinct D of the First Ward and Precinct D of the Fourth Ward. Mayor Dean Cranmer, unopposed today, in November will face the winner of the GOP contest.

Today's noon precinct vote compared with the 1959 vote follows:

Castro Welds Communist Ties

Rules Out Elections, Restricts Church

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro today put Cuba deep into the sphere of international communism, proclaiming a Socialist state, ruling out elections and clapping harsh new restrictions on the Roman Catholic Church.

Cuban masses filled Havana's Civic Plaza for a mammoth May Day demonstration and roared their assent when Castro insisted on Cuba's right to choose its own political and social future despite United States disapproval.

"We will not even discuss that subject," said Castro, whose audience was estimated by Havana television commentators at three million. The telecast was monitored in Key West, 90 miles from Havana.

The multitude screamed "No, no" when Castro asked, "Do you need elections?" He said Cuba would do without them.

Calling priests "the exploiters who came in the name of God," Castro announced that church schools will be nationalized in a few days and foreign-born clergymen will be expelled from Cuba.

Referring to several captured invaders identified as priests, and blaming the United States for fostering the ill-fated April 17 attack on his regime, Castro warned that U.S. cities are "in danger of becoming another Hiroshima."

He said churches will be allowed to remain open. Castro said it was an historic May Day because workers who used to express their demands "to those who were completely deaf to their interests no longer have to submit to those trials."

"Now everything the government does or can do has one sole and exclusive purpose, which is to aid its class, its people."

The crowd broke into the Cuban revolutionary song, "We Shall Triumph."

Castro said, "If Mr. Kennedy does not like socialism, we don't like imperialism. We don't like capitalism." He said Cuba has as much right to set up a Socialist state 90 miles from the U.S. coast as the United States does to its form of government."

E. Palestine Voting Draws 120 by 9 a.m.

EAST PALESTINE — A spot check of local precincts revealed that about 120 voters had gone to the polls here by 9 a.m., indicating a fairly good morning turnout.

In the last comparable primary election in 1959, 300 persons had cast ballots by 11 a.m. The total vote in 1959 was 1,040 — 795 Republican and 246 Democratic votes.

There are several contests on each ticket this year but no special issues.

$15 Million Youngstown U Expansion Set

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Youngstown University today announced a 15-million-dollar plan for expansion over the next 15 years.

The plan approved by the University's Board of Trustees calls for 19 new buildings and 82 additional acres adjacent to the present campus.

"This development plan is a beginning for Youngstown University's future," said University President Dr. Howard W. Jones in making the announcement.

Construction on a new student union building is expected to start this fall.

Other proposed buildings include facilities for faculty and student dining, engineering, business, economics, science, religion, education, music and art, physical education, military science and an observatory. There also will be dormitories for men and women, as well as sorority and fraternity areas, and a graduate school in arts and science for about 500 students.

Over the past nine years, the coeducational university has raised 4.5 million dollars, or $500,000 a year, for new construction. Yearly goal of a fund drive for new construction is an estimated $750,000. University officials said federal aid could speed up the construction.

April Showers Here Almost Twice Average

April rains here totaled 6.05 inches, almost double the month's 68-year-average of 3.08 inches, Columbiana County Weather Observer Edwin Copeland reported today. Last month's total, however, was under the 7.39 inches that fell in April, 1901, the wettest April on record.

Copeland also reported snowfall last month totaled 6.5 inches, vastly in excess of the 68-year-average of 1.5 inches and last year's April snowfall of 3 inches. Twenty inches of snow fell in April 1901.

Temperatures last month averaged 42.4 degrees, compared to the 68-year-average for April of 47.8 degrees and the 51.6 degree average for April last year.

The high temperature last month was recorded at 75 degrees on April 24, while the low was 22 degrees on April 2.

There were 12 days of snow last month, Copeland said, and from November of last year to May 1 of this year, 52.5 inches of snow fell, compared to the average of 28.5 inches for the same period. Rain or snow fell during 17 days in April, he said.

Average sunshine in April was 27 per cent, compared with the month's 68-year-average of 55. He said the area is ahead two inches of rainfall for the first four months of 1961 and behind one degree of temperature for the local four-month average.

Waterford Sewage Project Is Delayed

NEW WATERFORD—The start of construction on the $270,000 sewage project here, scheduled for this morning, has been delayed for several days. Mayor William Ferguson reported today. The mayor said he had received letters from the contractors stating they would move their equipment in later this week. Herman Brothers of Youngstown was awarded the $169,000 contract for installation of the trunk lines. The Hextro Co. of Girard will erect the sewage treatment plant at a cost of $60,000.

The contracts represent the largest public works project ever undertaken here.

House Has 'Hat' It: You Still Must Doff 'Em, Ladies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio House of Representatives has HAT it.

For months now, there's been a move afoot in the House to repeal a law dating back to horse and buggy days. The law requires theater patrons to remove view-obstructing hats.

It obviously was directed against ladies of the day who wore high feathered or similarly concocted hats, much to the annoyance of male theater patrons.

Rep. Nolan W. Carson, R-Hamilton, told the House he sponsored the repealer only to get rid of an outdated law.

But the House apparently didn't think the law was that outdated. After all, some of the millinery worn by ladies today . . . Well, keeping in mind that "Hell hath no fury, etc." suffice it to say that women still wear hats.

Anyway, the repeal measure came up for a vote Monday. But before it did, Rep. Lloyd George Kerns, R-Union, arose to put in a word for "some of the little fellows running around here, like me and Rep. A. G. Lancione."

Lancione, D-Belmont, and Kerns both stand only 5 feet 2.

Whatever words Kerns "put in," it undoubtedly made an impression on many House members. For the vote was 61-57, nine short of the 70 needed to repeal the anti-hat law.

This means the ladies will still have to doff their view-obstructing hats in theaters.

But in the words of Rep. Maurice C. Brown, D-Lorain, a theater business manager, the problem of movie house operators is not oversized hats on women's heads. He told the House it's the refusal of "these young beatnik fellows" to take off their hats.

The repeal measure, incidentally, was sent originally to the House Mines and Natural Resources Committee for study. The reason that committee got assigned the job was that it had no other bills before it.

Or maybe it was due to the comment of Rep. Kenneth A. Robinson, R-Marion.

Said he: "Don't tell me women's hats are not a natural resource."

Cleveland Slump Over Employment Bureau Chief Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland recession is over, according to Ward A. Riley, head of the Ohio State Employment Service and the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in this area.

Riley said Monday the latest figures showed: (1) A drop in new BUC claims; (2) a drop in continuing claims; (3) a decrease in total unemployment; and (4) fewer filings for extended claims.

"We reached our peak and we can expect a decrease in unemployment and a pickup in employment," Riley said.

Initial BUC claims dropped 1,972 to 3,401 last week, the least since Oct. 15, he said. New claims have run under 4,000 a week in four of the last six weeks reported.

There were 39,514 continuing claims including 1,800 automobile workers who collected BUC pay after one week layoffs, but who have gone back to work, Riley said.

Utility Probe Faces Defeat

Ohio Group Tags Politics to Measure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Rules Committee of the Ohio House apparently will decide—possibly today—that there is no reason to investigate the rate requests of utility companies.

But the committee may ask Rep. Richard M. Christiansen, D-Richland, to reply to two questions he refused to answer Monday night in an unusual public meeting of the almost sacrosanct body headed by Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan. The hearing lasted three hours.

First of all, Christiansen declined to tell the committee how he came into possession of a letter written to a New York brokerage firm last November by George B. Quatman of Lima, president of Ohio Telephone Services, Inc., which controls at least 16 independent telephone firms.

Second, he refused to say whether he had discussed the Quatman letter with Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle in advance of his request for a House investigation. Speaker Cloud told newsmen it is a matter for the Rules Committee to decide whether Christiansen should be required to answer the questions. The first question was asked by Rep. Kenneth Robinson, R-Marion, and the second by House Majority Leader Robert Taft Jr., R-Hamilton.

The whole strange affair centered around the Quatman letter which his son, Judge Joseph Quatman, told the committee was written to counteract a report by a New York investment counseling company cautioning prospective investors against Ohio utility securities.

The unusual hearing which played to a packed committee room was by far the highlight of the opening day of the 18th work week of the 104th General Assembly.

Other legislative activities played into insignificance. The Quatman letter said flatly that utility companies, in the light of recent decisions by the Utilities Commission, "inflate" their rate requests in the expectation that they will be "pulled down" by the commission.

Republican "defense" attorneys led by Robinson attempted throughout the hearing to hang a political tag on Christiansen's request for a full-scale House investigation.

"Have you enjoyed the publicity occasioned by this resolution?" Robinson asked the Mansfield freshman lawmaker.

"Not particularly," retort Christiansen.

The former Mansfield city solicitor got some of his roughest handling from Taft and Rep. Archer Reilly, R-Franklin, one of Christiansen's former law professors.

After a half-dozen repetitions of the question from Taft, Christiansen conceded he had no evidence Quatman had any authority to speak for all the public utilities in Ohio.

Reilly, asserting he spoke as a friend rather than as a political adversary and as a former instructor, said to Christiansen: "I am at a loss as to what you expect to accomplish by offering this resolution; what practical accomplishment could there be—aside from politics? The letter indicates one man's opinion—and it doesn't prove very much."

Christiansen produced one of the few laughs of the supercharged session when he observed: "I tend to be more bipartisan in my approach when I am in the minority."

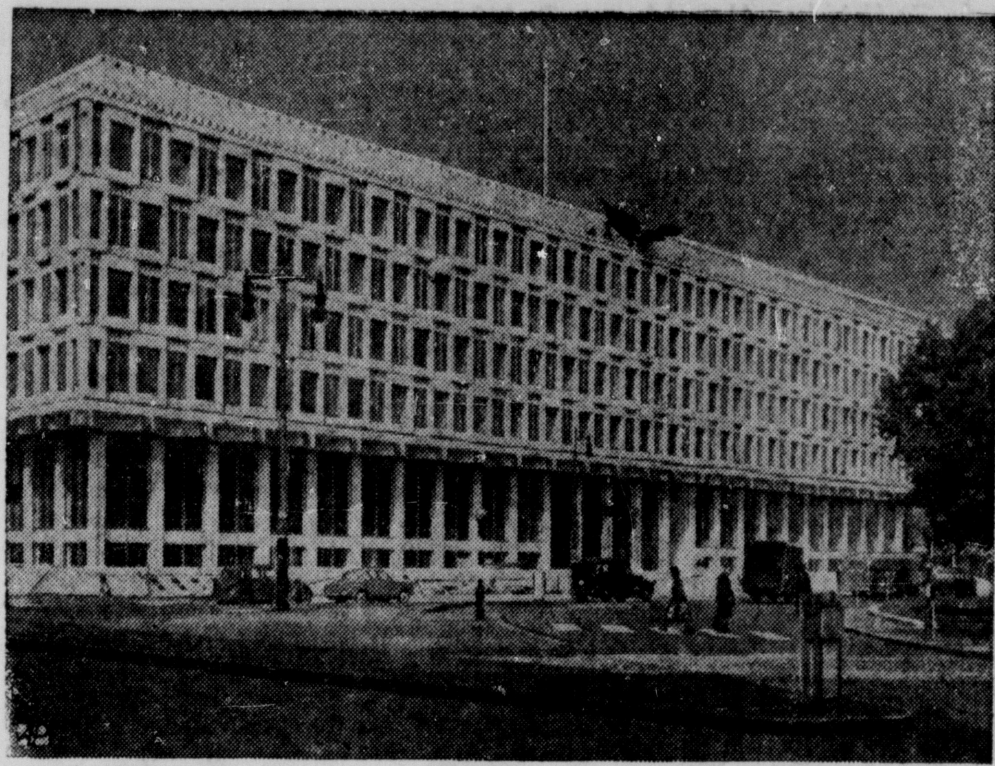

Joseph Quatman told the committee he was authorized to speak for his father, George Quatman. He said the letter in question was not intended for public consumption.

"It was personal correspondence for which we have no apology and no shame."

"We have here an attempt to misconstrue the letter for the benefit of those who wish to misconstrue it."

Don't build yourself up so high that you are bound to run into a let-down.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN
Reasons for Hospital Preference

An important question has been raised by a correspondent who writes:

"We have a lovely little community hospital in our town that many of us have worked hard to organize, build and maintain. Yet many of my neighbors go to one of the big out-of-town clinics when they're ill, especially for surgery. Don't you think we'd all be better off if they stayed home and supported our hospital and its staff?"

I wish I could answer with the unqualified affirmative that my correspondent would like to receive. But I'm afraid I would have to insist on qualifications if a situation arose that involved my own welfare or the welfare of anyone for whom I was responsible.

For example, I would not like to submit to a surgical procedure unless my home town community hospital was approved and unless my surgeon was duly qualified and could count on the assistance of a qualified anesthesiologist and a competent staff of nurses and resident physicians.

NOW LET'S DEFINE terms. By an approved hospital I mean one that has met the standards laid down by the American Hospital Assn. and the American College of Surgeons. You can find out if your hospital has been so qualified by making inquiry at the office of the director or superintendent.

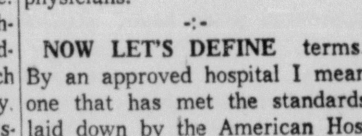

By a qualified surgeon or a qualified anesthesiologist, I mean one who has been certified by the Advisory Board for Medical Specialties, organized in 1933.

To obtain certification in a recognized specialty, the candidate must have had special and exhaustive training and have successfully passed oral and written examinations conducted by an examining committee of recognized make is the considered fact that it would be most unusual to find a diplomate who was not completely worthy of your trust. And, since there is no other yardstick of anywhere near comparable value, you may feel secure if the surgeon or other specialist of your choice is a qualified diplomate.

Now I've wandered quite a bit from the original question. But perhaps I've made clear to my correspondent why I felt I must qualify my answer. And, if her community hospital is an approved hospital and the staff includes accredited diplomates, I should personally prefer it to an out-of-town big clinic for reasons I'll specify in another column.

Income Tax Saved the City

On the basis of the $42,570 reported for the first-quarter collections, Salem's income tax yield for the full year will exceed the anticipated $150,000.

This is encouraging, to city officials who were worried before the tax became effective Jan. 1 on how municipal operations were going to be financed during 1961.

The $42,570—if multiplied four times—would net $170,280 but this amount will not be realized this year for several reasons. First, the first-quarter payments are not likely to hold up for the second and third quarters because of full '61 payments by some individuals and concerns, and secondly, because returns for the last quarter ending Dec. 31 will not be received, officially, until Jan. 15 of 1962.

THE FINAL PAYMENTS probably will equal the first quarter but the funds will not enrich the city coffers until next year. Quite obviously, then, the city will not receive the benefits of a full year's tax this year.

Nor will it be able to call even three quarters' collection its own.

The city started 1961 with a general fund deficit and even some bills from last December remain unpaid. Council already this year has had to borrow $18,000 to meet regular payrolls and borrowed $7,500 to help set up the income tax department. This $25,500 bank loan must be paid back and some of the income tax revenue probably will be used in the process.

The income tax distribution—by ordinance—is 60 per cent to the general fund and 40 per cent to capital improvements, but even these percentages are apt to be less when the final accounting is made, City Auditor Helen Coyne believes. Funds for the Charter Commission and Civil Defense had to be appropriated and these were not reckoned with earlier.

HOWEVER, IF THE city had not had the income tax (one-half of one per cent) this year a real emergency would have resulted because funds from normal sources, including general property and personal taxes, would not have been sufficient to meet payrolls and general operations of all but the water and sewer departments, which are self-sustaining.

The city income tax department has done an exceptional job in establishing the office and Mrs. Helen Coyne, the city auditor who gets little credit for her "watchdog" tactics over the municipality's income and outgo, deserves commendation for prudent management in handling her extra duties.

She saved $11,788 through careful purchases, and the operational cost after Jan. 1, if the tax is renewed for another year, will amount to only about six per cent of anticipated revenue.

The city income tax has been like a blood transfusion for the city. It probably could not have survived without it.

Truth Can Make Men Free

President Kennedy's thoughtful comments to a Bureau of Advertising audience about the need for more newspaper enlightenment and less news about sensitive security subjects will be honored by many thoughtful reactions among newspapermen. The President has outlined a problem.

Perhaps he was one of us just long enough years ago when he helped to cover the formation of the United Nations to see the hopelessness of the dilemma. The self-discipline he refers to as the one way the press could keep from publishing news that might handicap the government in the cold war is a wishful thought. Many newspapermen have wished there might be self-discipline among newspapers, too. But as many more have rejected the idea.

Any chain of decisions about what shouldn't be published lest its publication hurt or handicap the government is no stronger than its weakest link. This is as true of government as it is of the press.

THE INSTANT a government official tries to hide something in the name of national security that shouldn't be hidden, trouble starts. And trouble would begin if newspapermen began to hide things they thought might be hurtful to national security. Who would make the decisions?

In the United States, the doctrine of freedom holds that only the truth can make men free, and the truth is always in open season. Even in wartime under a voluntary censorship code it was nip-and-tuck to keep obvious truths concealed, as when newspapers made no reference to over-the-highway troop movements that had been witnessed by thousands of bystanders, or military construction under 24-hour surveillance by all the bystanders who cared to watch.

If the war hadn't ended when it did, patience with the incongruities and inconsistencies of news suppression would have run out.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is talking about a new kind of war in which relentless pressure for advantage may put the United States at a disadvantage against Communist discipline, which conceals virtually everything.

He may have been thinking about the way the New York Times learned that Cubans were training in Guatemala for a forthcoming invasion of Cuba and thereupon told what it had learned.

He may have been thinking about the discovery by the New York Herald Tribune that the RB47 fliers were on their way home. In that case, the paper withheld the news it had dug up until Mr. Kennedy had taken the edge off it by using it in a televised press conference. That was a bitter pill for a newspaper to swallow.

This is the newspaper dilemma. A little secrecy is like smoking that one cigarette which breaks the resolution to smoke no more cigarettes; it represents the collapse of a resolution that there must be no secrecy in a free press; that news is where you find it and its publication is a professional obligation that marks the difference between newspapering and propagandizing.

Once Over

President Kennedy is demanding that income tax loopholes be closed, shrunk or plugged. The yacht entertainment income tax blank must go, he says, together with the deductible martini, turkey hunt and part time foreign residence escape hatch. Action should come in time to forestall fellow who buys space-ship and claims its deductible because of business contacts with buyers who like clambakes on moon.

CONGRESS IS asked to throw the book at these types:

1.—Man who buys a quarter interest in farm for old police-horses and deducts expenses for racing stable on claim many customers won't do business with him if he can't show racing colors.

2.—Businessman who takes wife with him on foreign business trips and makes her deductible on ground he can't keep his mind on business if he is away off somewhere with another doll.

3.—Gent who has so much dough he can afford a part time hacienda in Europe and let native Americans pick up the tab.

4.—Type who not only deducts for yacht but makes swordfish pulpit deductible because he entrances prospective customers by explaining what it's for. (He also deducts for harpoon, and keg.)

5.—Tycoon who thinks cabanas, swimming pools and night club checks are deductible and that at his own house parties "losses by storm" clause will take care of damage when out-of-town buyers mix old-fashioned cocktails with gin and start swinging from chandeliers.

6.—Owner of yachting camp, and defective compass who insists he owns three yachts, with understanding that one yacht keeps customers good will, two yachts make it easy to get complete tax exemption and three yachts entitle him to sue government for refund of 1942 taxes.

"TEA FOR TWO" was recent race winner. Shudda Haddim missed because he was taking a coffee break.

IBM dedicated 11 million dollar electric brain center to solve problems by computer. (We hear top official couldn't find out where he left his hat, another couldn't determine whether to carry umbrella to meeting and two scientists got lost on the grounds.)

Big American corporation, Olin-Mathieson, held its annual stockholders meeting in such a remote spot that only one stockholder showed up. Place called Saltville in Virginia. Lone stockholder to find it was reportedly a Mrs. Adams. But this is an error, since we got there, wearing a Daniel Boone costume and sending Indian scouts out ahead. The president opened the session with "I am happy to welcome our stockholders," which indicated he had asigmatism. He asked if there were any questions and Mrs. Adams joined us in these inquiries:

1.—Will we be forgiven for locating this meeting?

2.—How much has the company saved through escaping custom of serving chicken salad, ham sandwiches, etc., and does this indicate Olin-Mathieson is against free lunch?

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Never did I think I'd write the profile of a table! Not even one which is a masterpiece in walnut, 30 feet long, around which sit labor's high command in its national headquarters across the square from the White House. But to know the history of this polished piece is to understand the industrial civil war which may yet rock this land or at least our rocket bases and mammoth mills.

Some of labor's national leaders were seated around it at noon, Monday, April 24, when Morris Pizer, president of the United Furniture Workers turned to his colleagues, including the feuding Walter Reuther and George Meany.

The table, Mr. Pizer said with a sort of wistful sadness, had been built by artisans of New York Local 7-B of his international union.

But it was too large to ship in one piece from Gotham to Washington. So the company disassembled it, packed it tenderly, and dispatched the crates along with some of its union men. They were to reassemble it into one piece.

WHEN THE CRATES arrived at the AFL-CIO national headquarters, which was still under construction, the unionized New York furniture workers found themselves barred from the building.

The construction workers, building their own national headquarters, claimed the table as their jurisdiction. The table could not get into the AFL-CIO building unless local craftsmen, carpenters in this case, were given the job of reassembling it.

The furniture workers were incredulous. This, after all, was the "House of all Labor." Why the conflict?

Mr. Pizer's men, being of philosophical bent, decided not to embarrass their national chiefs and left. Then the local carpenters, good building technicians but not furniture artisans, just could not fit the table together. So the furniture workers were recalled.

They put it together, Mr. Pizer said, pointing to the table as they sat around it. But, he added, the carpenters had not gone away. They had "stood by" while the furniture workers did the job. And the carpenters had to be paid for standing by.

Thus, even inside the national labor temple, the AFL-CIO treasury had to pay twice for the work one crew did while another crew watched idly.

NATIONAL AFL-CIO president, George Meany, glared at the table and grimly said he never knew what had happened.

Neither have other national labor chiefs known until recently what the "new" McClellan committee has discovered. Not only do the furniture workers run into this sort of feuding several times a week but all over the land cocky local union officials feud and cost the government and industry and their own workers millions on millions of dollars.

There is, for example, the untold story of a battle over a few technical Cape Canaveral chores which virtually shut the base down for two weeks.

This was in November 1960. Thousands of men were kept from their jobs at the astronaut base while the plumbers and the electrical workers fought over some installation jurisdiction.

Only the White House, through the secretary of labor, ended that one. Thousands of man days were lost.

Then there was the feud in Vandenberg Air Force Base, California headquarters for the Pacific missile range. Some contractors had to bring in technicians to handle a few electrical gadgets in a control blockhouse.

The electrical workers walked off the job. Three thousand other members of building and construction unions sympathized and downed tools. More thousands of man days lost.

IT IS at this base that McClellan's investigators discovered that members of the pipefitters union did to the United States exactly what the building and construction union people did to the oval table in the AFL-CIO eighth floor council room.

Local contracts have clauses which, in effect, reject the installation of equipment made and assembled elsewhere—even if produced by union men.

Thus, when hydraulic machinery designed to handle liquid oxygen for our race in space arrived at Camp Vandenberg, the local pipefitters had the contractual right to disassemble the mechanism and put it back again exactly as it came.

This gave them a certain amount of additional hours of work. But why work?

They simply decided how much time it would take to disassemble and reassemble. Then they took that time off—or stood by, as they say—and installed the machinery exactly as it was originally shipped.

If the U.S. government, through the Pentagon, had objected, there would have been a strike. So the government—we the people—paid.

That's why angry senators now believe the time has come for passage of no-strike laws at defense bases.

How long do the few think they can push around the many? All of the people are not going to take it all of the time.

SIDE GLANCES

"I wonder how it would look in a normal size!"

First 100 Days

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Too Many Cooks Spoiling The Broth

On the surface, it does look like there's another "mess in Washington." But there's nothing really wrong here that wouldn't be cured by some consistency and firmness, plus a little more experience by President Kennedy.

Tens of thousands of words are poured out in presidential messages. "Task forces" galore—composed of earnest-minded but often naive intellectuals—are running around here trying to spell out reforms in well-written phrases that read like the promise-all planks of the political platforms.

After 100 days in the White House, Mr. Kennedy himself, a well-meaning, conscientious young man, is finding out the hard way that national government isn't so simple after all. He perhaps wishes he had not been so critical of the Eisenhower administration a few months ago and probably regrets the demagoguery he put into those campaign speeches.

Nobody will deny that Mr. Kennedy has an almost superhuman job on his hands and needs every bit of sympathy and help that he can get. But he will not win cooperation by alibis attempting to shift responsibility to the press, nor by spending so much of his time at partisan political dinners or in conferences with political bosses while international crises in Laos, South Vietnam and Cuba worry the American people.

The President's speech in New York last week urging the press to be cooperative was well intentioned but it has very little to do with the mess that arose in the handling of the Cuban "invasion."

The press, after all, has been indoctrinated during most of the last eight years by congressional committee studies and hearings to believe that "freedom of information" is paramount and that everything must be made available to the public.

Members of Congress themselves have often given out military information they thought was important to the American people even though at the same time potential enemies of this country were unwittingly furnished some valuable data.

WHAT IS THE REMEDY for this continuing deprecation of the United States? The first restraint will have to be imposed by members of Congress and the politicians upon themselves. They had a field day a year ago over the U2 incident and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's partisans even went so far as to publish a detailed report on the U2 affair—an obviously secret operation in the "cold war." The formal report made joyful reading in Moscow.

The press, of course, will print what is visible or audible to people generally. Democratic senators and representatives who made speeches about our missile gap could not expect the press to refrain from publishing them—in fact, they sought such publicity even though it undermined the prestige of the United States at home and abroad.

Rarely has any individual newspaper come up on its own with what might strictly be called military information that wasn't generally known.

Anyone who takes into account the large size of the Cuban exile group and the open operations of some of its leaders in Miami must realize that semipublic activities of this kind will be fully covered in the press and will be widely broadcast.

The Central Intelligence Agency is supposed to collect intelligence information and it rarely makes anything available to the press. Whether it really knows what's going on abroad sometimes is difficult to establish but nobody can quarrel with its desire for secrecy.

There's one important question to which the Kremlin wants the answer: Is the United States going to stand up for its rights and fight if necessary?

To put it another way, is the real viewpoint of this government expressed by the appeasers in our midst who go around telling the world we are licked on the issue of Red China's admission to the U.N. and might as well surrender?

Defeatism of this kind does more harm than news stories of a dozen Cuban invasions.

All that Moscow wants to know today is whether the United States is bluffing on Berlin or Laos or Cuba.

THERE WAS no doubt left by President Eisenhower that America would defend Formosa. It was made clear that we would defend Quemoy and Matsu under certain circumstances.

Mr. Kennedy during the campaign last year didn't help the cause by expressing opposition to a defense of Quemoy and Matsu. It was unwise then to broadcast such information to the Kremlin, because there was the possibility that, as president, Mr. Kennedy might face a decision on that very point. The press wasn't to blame for this dilemma, created to gain votes in a political campaign.

All in all, the press can help the cause of the United States by voluntarily suppressing news of weapons or gadgets or the mobilization of ships or airplanes or armies unless such movements have been officially announced.

The press can't help much in suppressing news about the administration when so many spokesmen are available from day to day to hint at changes in foreign policy that amount to a weakening of the United States position.

Nor does it seem to make much sense for the State Department to hold—as it did last week—two days of secret conferences with 250 American newspaper editors, including an off-the-record talk by President Kennedy himself, while a Communist newspaperman was present and took notes which doubtless were being read in the Kremlin within 24 hours.

The episode is explained as a mechanical error in making up the invitation list and the President was advised about it before he began speaking, but it was then too late to do anything without creating an international incident.

Sooner or later the "mess in Washington" will have to be cleaned up. It will be done when the number of cooks now making the broth is reduced considerably and some firm decisions are made by the President himself that are consistently maintained by deeds as well as words.

UCT Says 'Thank You'

Our hats are off to the citizens of Salem for the manner in which they responded to the appeal of the American Cancer Society for funds.

Perhaps the amount collected is overshadowed even by the spirit in which the people of Salem donated of their time, effort and contributions to the fund drive.

The recent Cancer Crusade was highlighted by the fact that the letters containing donations were greater percentage-wise than in any other city that we know of. This, coupled with the generous support and efforts of certain groups such as the Junior Baseball League, Girl Scouts, business and industrial organizations, and individuals gives our city local and national recognition in the field of Cancer fund donations, research work for the American Cancer Society and the Vehicle Safety Check Program also sponsored by the United Commercial Travelers. In regards to these efforts we are very proud of the city in which we live and bring up our children.

Gretchen Bodendorfer Is Wed At Columbus

Clinton Heights Lutheran Church in Columbus was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Gretchen A. Bodendorfer of Cincinnati, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Bodendorfer of Columbus, formerly of Salem, and Robert Hall McCormick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick Sr. of Cincinnati.

Vases of white carnations and snapdragons and cathedral candelabra enhanced the altar before which the double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. Ervin Krebs.

Mrs. David Jennings was organist for the service.

Mr. Bodendorfer gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white peau de soie featured a scoop neckline, trimmed with Alencon lace, three-quarter sleeves, an empire bodice and a bell skirt with a long chapel train. A peau de soie Dior bow held her tiered French illusion veil. Phalaenopsis orchids formed her cascade bouquet.

Miss Paula Bodendorfer and Mrs. David E. Ford, twin sisters of the bride, were maid of honor and matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie M. Campbell of Cleveland, Mrs. J. Charles McCullough, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Donald Jenkins Haynes of Cincinnati.

They were attired in identical dresses of powder blue Egyptian cotton fashioned with bateau necklines, short sleeves and bouffant skirts. They wore matching bow bandeaux, and carried cascade arrangements of stephanotis and blue bachelor buttons.

Harold E. Neave Jr. of Cincinnati was best man. Theodore R. Bumiller, J. Charles McCullough and Dr. Samuel Pogue Todd of Cincinnati, E. Lynch Smith of Chicago, Ill., and Robert R. Valentine of Toledo were ushers.

Mrs. Bodendorfer chose a green silk print sheath with a white hat and a green cymbidium orchid corsage. A yellow cymbidium orchid corsage complemented the yellow linen sheath worn by Mrs. McCormick.

Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick Jr.

The reception was held at the University Club. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with blue and white flowers, with bouquets of white flowers and blue bachelor buttons gracing the tables.

Mrs. McCormick is a graduate of Ohio State University, School of Dental Hygiene. Her husband is a graduate of Miami University and Harvard Business School.

For her wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a coffee-gray-bone checked linen suit with bone accessories. They will reside at 7013 Glen Meadow Lane, Cincinnati 37. The bridegroom's parents were hosts at the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at Olentangy Inn in Columbus.

In his report, Eckfeld outlined proper procedures for instituting the forms of municipal control.

SIX BOYS FINED

LISBON — Six Wellsville boys, aged 11 to 16, who broke a window in a car and also stole some pies, were ordered to pay $80 in fines and damages at a hearing Monday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Two youths had to pay $25 each and two others, $15 each. All were placed on probation to their parents.

A total of $28.26 was paid to Howard Broadbent for pies, $1.50 to George Calhoun and $13.57 to an insurance company for the window they broke. The balance will go to the juvenile court.

WILL HEAR SCOUTER

LISBON — County Boy Scout Executive Bennett Taylor will be the guest speaker Thursday noon at the meeting of Kiwanis Club at the Eagle's Lodge. Charles Faust is the program chairman.

Commissioners Act On Routine Business

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Monday authorized the grant of $300 to Salem Township trustees for road maintenance. They also paid $51 to Wellsville for 102 dogs destroyed there.

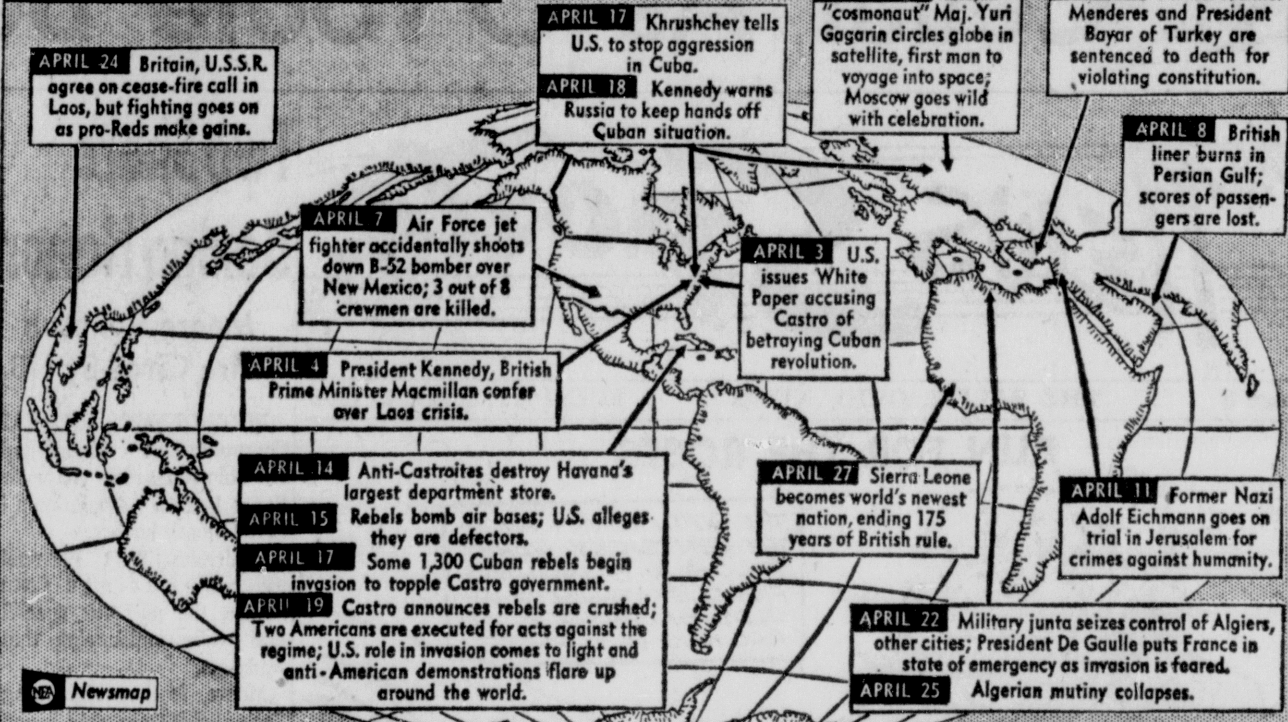

The board authorized travel allowances for Mrs. Betty Hendricks of Lisbon and Mrs. Pheda Thornton of North Georgetown to attend the National Tuberculosis Assn.'s meeting in Cincinnati May 23-25.

The board also approved travel allowances covering the commissioners' attendance at a hearing tomorrow in Columbus before the Ohio Supreme Court in the mandamus action against James T. Welch, director of the Department of State Personnel. The action asks the court to order the certification of pay to Mrs. Edna Helman of Lisbon, appointed by the Republican-controlled county commissioners.

A letter was read from the Columbiana County Health Department, urging the commissioners to act on the citizen's petition for creation of a sanitary sewer district in the Glenmoor area.

The commissioners' next meeting will be Thursday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

LAST MONTH - IN HISTORY

Shepard

weather men looked hopefully for a break in the overcast.

But weather conditions did not change and at 7:40 a.m. the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the shot was off until at least Thursday.

"No new launch date has been set," said the announcement, "but the minimum recycle time is 48 hours. The pilot will remain in the crew quarters in the NASA Mercury hangar here."

The rocket crew was 2 hours and 20 minutes away from its zero target when the decision to postpone was reached. The count had been halted several times in the hope that favorable weather would come.

Fuel had poured into the Redstone's tanks. But for that, another try might have been made Wednesday. It will take two days after the tanks are emptied to prepare them again for a shoot.

If the blastoff does not come by Saturday, there will be an indefinite delay, NASA officials said. Ships swarming over the recovery area, ready to pick up the space capsule after it plunges into the sea, would have to return to port for fuel, food and other supplies.

If Shepard was calm, as was reported, his were the only quiet nerves around Cape Canaveral. Tension had mounted, especially among the dedicated Project Mercury people who had worked hard toward this day.

Announcement of the postponement, heard on car radios, brought a letdown to the thousands who had gone to the beaches outside the missile test center, hoping to be on hand for the great moment when one of their own countrymen would soar aloft on the path that will lead eventually to the moon and perhaps beyond.

While a brief suborbital flight by Shepard would not equal the feat of the Soviet's Yuri A. Gagarin, who made an orbit of the earth and will give him five minutes toward overtaking the huge space lead built up by the early starting Soviets.

The U.S. timetable calls for a man in orbit later this year, in a capsule to be hurled aloft by an Atlas, a much more powerful missile than the Redstone.

But the Redstone flight will make heavy demands on the mental and physical strength of a man. It will subject him to crushing pressures reaching up to 11 times gravity on the return to earth and will give him five minutes of the weird feeling of weightlessness. It will determine his reaction to speeds up to 5,000 miles an hour in the cramped environment of the capsule.

A bell-shaped device nine feet tall and six feet across its rounded base is the space ship, and its interior is as familiar to the seven American astronauts as their living rooms. They have had numerous practice runs in its close quarters and have memorized its maze of lights, dials and switches.

Toughened by hours in low pressure chambers, wind tunnels, whirling centrifuges, hot and cold rooms, and supersonic jets, Shepard was reported today to be in superb condition for eventual flight.

When the time comes, he will know that every precaution has been taken to minimize the dangers, but that the first step into space can never be taken without some risk to his life.

TWO MEN PENALIZED

LISBON — Two Wellsville area men were penalized for non-support of minor children at a hearing Monday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Carl Lee Baker, 20, was sentenced to six months in the county jail, but his sentence was suspended provided he pays $230 by May 8 and continues regular payments.

Robert Hickman, 37, paid $500 immediately to the welfare department and he was ordered to pay $100 per month to the support division and $25 a month to his father who put up the $500 payment yesterday for his release.

Resignations of Palestine Teacher, Coaches Accepted

EAST PALESTINE—The Board of Education meeting at the High School Monday night accepted the resignation of Mrs. Margaret Longacre of Salem, home economics teacher for the past year, and Howard Weyers and Don McCright, had football coach and assistant, respectively.

Mrs. Longacre, a Kent State University graduate, will move to Medina this year where her husband has accepted a new position. Weyers and McCright have been named to new coaching jobs at Maple Heights.

The board hired Bert Spontak, a resident of Baden, Pa., and a Geneva College graduate, as an elementary teacher next fall.

The board announced that bids will be opened May 11 for the $850,000 school improvement program. The contracts probably will be awarded May 15. The major projects are the construction of a 10-room elementary building and a six-room addition to the High School.

Plans call for completion of the annex by late fall. Work on the elementary school probably will extend into next year.

The board said it had been advised that nine contractors have secured plans for the general contract, eight for the electric work and nine, plumbing.

The bond issue for the school program was approved by voters last November.

The entry and exhibit chairman, Mrs. Albert Sanders, will be present to receive them in the gymnasium.

Mrs. Ralph Martin, chairman of the gift shop, requests that all items for the shop be brought Wednesday also.

Contributions for the bake sale will be received Saturday morning between 9 and 11, with Mrs. Maude Dressel, chairman, in charge.

The gift shop and bake sale will be held Saturday only, but the hobby show is open to the public from 1 to 9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

olics to vote for the Popular Democratic party of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin. Dorville, a Roman Catholic, wrote 20 editorials. Munoz Marin's party won the election.

Sanche De Gramont, 29, of the New York Herald Tribune, won the prize for local reporting under pressure of edition time. A native of Switzerland, now assigned to Paris by his newspaper, he was selected for his story of the death of baritone Leonard Warren on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House March 4, 1960.

Dorville and De Gramont both have worked for The Associated Press in New York.

The prize for local reporting where deadline pressure was not a factor was won by Edgar May of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Evening News, also a native of Switzerland. May, 31, conducted a six-months study of the cost and other problems of administering public welfare. He spent three months as a caseworker for the Erie County Department of Social Welfare. The series was entitled "Our Costly Dilemma."

The cartoon award went to Carey Orr, 71, a cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune since 1917. The award was for the Ada, Ohio, native's long and distinguished service in his field as exemplified by a cartoon last Oct. 8 captioned "The Kindly Tiger." It showed a tiger representing communism licking its lips over the figure of Africa emerging to freedom.

Except for the gold medal award—which carries no cash—all journalistic citations carried prizes of $1,000. Those in arts and letters were worth $500 each.

The Pulitzer Prizes, set up by the late newspaper publisher Joseph Pulitzer in a bequest to Columbia University, are awarded annually by the trustees of the university on recommendation of an advisory board composed mainly of newspaper executives.

Herbert Feis, 68, of York, Maine, won the prize for history for "Between War and Peace: The Potsdam Conference." It was the latest in a long series of published works by the New York City native, going back to 1930.

David Donald, 41, of Princeton, N. J., won the award for biography for his "Charles Sumner and the Coming of the Civil War."

The prize for poetry went to Phyllis McGinley, 56, of Larchmont, N. Y., for "Times Three: Selected Verse From Three Decades."

Walter Piston's Symphony No. 7 brought him the prize for music. The symphony was commissioned by the Philadelphia Orchestra Association and was first performed by that group last Feb. 10. Piston, 67, of Belmont, Mass., also won the Pulitzer music award in 1948, for his Symphony No. 3.

A special citation was bestowed by the Columbia trustees on "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War," which covers the war's history in pictures, maps, sketches and text.

The mammoth volume was prepared by the book division of the American Heritage Publishing Co. Inc., with narrative by Bruce Catton, a 1954 Pulitzer Prize winner in history. Eight researchers, writers and artists provided background for the book.

Education Group Plans Workshop

LISBON — The executive committee of the Columbiana County Education Association met Monday afternoon in the county superintendent's office in the Courthouse and tentatively scheduled the county's annual workshop for Oct. 2 at the new Fairfield-Waterford High School.

Each county district will appoint two members to the workshop committee, from the elementary and high school levels, who will work on the program.

The committee adopted a unified dues schedule for next year on a voluntary basis for joining the Columbiana County Education Assn., Ohio Education Assn. and National Education Assn.

Jerry Russell of No. 16 school, former president of the county association, will attend the National Education Association's convention in Atlantic City in June as a delegate of the county association.

Thirteen attended the meeting Monday, with John Gruszecki Jr., principal at Franklin Local School, the new president, presiding.

Reds Escape NL Cellar As O'Toole Beats Phils 3-2

White Sox Edged 6-5 by Minnesota Yankees' Fray With Senators Washed Out; Other Teams Idle

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

After an explosive weekend that produced a no-hitter by Warren Spahn and a four-home run outburst by Willie Mays, baseball fell back into the old routine Monday night—Philadelphia once more gave Robin Roberts just two runs, Robin lost his fourth without a victory and the Phils plunked back into the National League cellar.

Roberts, after a hopeful spring in which he ran up a string of 24 shutout exhibition innings, lost 3-2 at Cincinnati with the winning run unearned. In each of Robin's four defeats, the Phils have scored just two runs.

It was the only game scheduled in the NL and one of but two played in the majors. In the American League, the Minnesota Twins beat the Chicago White Sox 6-5 on a ninth-inning run. The only other game scheduled, New York at Washington, was rained out.

The Reds, jumping back to seventh place with their second in a row after losing eight straight, beat Roberts with a tie-breaking run in the fourth inning. An error by shortstop Ruben Amaro and singles by Leo Cardenas and Don Blasingame did it.

It was the third consecutive hit for Blasingame, the second baseman acquired from San Francisco last week, after going 0-for-12 this season.

Jim O'Toole was the winner for a 2-2 record, blanking the Phils on one hit over the last three innings and finishing with a six-hitter. He struck out nine and walked just two—giving up both passes in the sixth inning. A double play got him out of the jam.

Roberts, suffering his second straight defeat by an unearned run, allowed 10 hits, walked one and struck out five in his seven innings on the mound.

The Twins scored their winning run in the last of the ninth against losing reliever Turk Lown (0-2) of the White Sox. Ray Moore (2-1) was the winner with one perfect inning of relief. Harmon Killebrew homered for the Twins' first two runs, off starter Frank Baumann. The Sox counted their first three off Chuck Stobbs on homers by Jim Landis, Al Smith and Camilo Carreon.

Trial To Start May 8

State Gives Approval For Motors on Guilford Lake

Approval of use of ¾ horsepower motors on Guilford Forked Run and Knox state lakes on and after May 8 has been announced by James Wells, administrator, of the Division of Watercraft. A public hearing on the proposal had been held on April 7.

Forked Run and Guilford lakes are administered by the Division of Parks which had sponsored the proposal. No motors had previously been permitted on either lake.

Knox Lake, controlled by the Division of Wildlife, had formerly been closed to all motors. The Wildlife Council approved use of ¾ horsepower motors earlier this year. Parts of the lake will be marked for the purpose of restricting the use of motors.

The liberalization is definitely considered as a trial according to Hayden W. Olds, chief of the Division of Wildlife, and public acceptance of the regulations will be closely observed and enforced.

His Wife Not So Sure

Jackie Jensen Says He'll Not Return To Baseball

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Outfielder Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox, apparently discouraged by an anemic batting average, says he is quitting baseball for good.

But his wife, former Olympic diving champion Zoe Ann Olsen, said she will try to talk him into rejoining the team.

Jensen, who left the team in Cleveland Saturday, confirmed Monday night that he was retiring again.

"I've had it," Jensen told sportswriter Ensign Ritchie of the Ogden Standard-Examiner. "I know when my reflexes are gone and I'm not going to be any 25th man on the ball club."

Ritchie interviewed Jensen when his train stopped here en route to Reno. It was the first direct word from Jensen on his walkout.

He made no announcement, then, merely leaving word with a teammate that he would contact Red Sox Manager Mike Higgins at Kansas City.

THE 87TH RUNNING OF THE KENTUCKY DERBY FINDS A BLINDING FIELD OF THREE-YEAR-OLDS SNIFFING FOR RACING'S BIG PRIZE

Jim Piersall Has Flu, May Miss Game

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jim Piersall is a doubtful starter for Cleveland tonight in the Indians' first home night game of the season, against the Chicago White Sox.

Suffering the flu, he spent Monday in bed.

Piersall complained of a sore throat before Sunday's doubleheader with the Boston Red Sox, but he made three hits and increased his average to .299. After the games he felt worse and called a doctor. His temperature was 103.

If Piersall is sidelined, his place will be taken by Walter Bond.

Jim Grant (1-0) was the Indians' choice to face Chicago's Early Wynn (2-0), a Tribe nemesis. Wynn, once a member of a great Cleveland pitching corps, has been tough on Cleveland ever since. He holds 23 triumphs in 34 decisions against the Indians. On the other hand, Grant has had little luck against the White Sox, losing six of seven decisions.

May Not Play Again for Year Stith, All-American Victim of Tuberculosis

OLEAN, N. Y. (AP)—All-American Tom Stith, whose scoring feats helped make little St. Bonaventure a major basketball power, has been stricken with tuberculosis. His doctor says at the earliest it will be more than a year before he plays again.

Doctors at St. Francis Hospital said Monday that Stith had the disease in one lung. He lost almost 20 pounds last season and entered the hospital for a check-up Friday when he failed to regain the weight.

Stith signed three weeks ago with the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association. He was the Knicks' first draft choice.

A prolific scorer, the 6-foot-5 forward scored 830 points in leading St. Bonaventure to a 24-4 record and an NCAA tourney berth last season. He was third among the nation's collegiate scorers.

Stith's physician said Tom would be transferred to Mt. Morris Sanatorium near Rochester. The doctor said it would be hard to say how long he would be convalescing.

"Given any break at all, I would say Tom could be ready to return to the game a year from this fall," he said.

LISBON — Ralph Cannon has been elected president of the Trot and Pace Club here. Other officers are Paul Wolf, vice president and Dick Stockman, secretary-treasurer.

The Trot and Pace Club held its "kickoff banquet" Saturday at St. George Parish Hall. The Ladies of the Altar and Rosary Society served the meal.

F. S. Rowland of the Republic Steel Corp. was the main speaker. The subject of his talk was "Failure by Default."

This is in sharp contrast to his .281 average for 10 previous seasons in the American League. In 1958, when Jensen was the league's most valuable player, he batted .286, drove in 122 runs and hit 35 home runs.

At their home in Crystal Bay, Nev., his wife said Jensen was sensitive about his performance. "When he is living by himself on the road, he starts moaning and groaning," Mrs. Jensen said. She said she would try to persuade him to return to the Boston club.

Higgins said he was waiting to hear from Jensen, but added: "I don't think Jackie will ever play again."

Two Share Boxing Honors Moore, Johnson Are Cited by NBA

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Champion Davey Moore and Harold Johnson today share the National Boxing Association's boxer-of-the-month honors.

Chairman Tony Petronella of the NBA Ratings Committee named the pair for special citation while announcing the April rankings.

Moore, featherweight king from Springfield, Ohio, was honored for his one-round knockout of Danny Ladez of Los Angeles. Light heavyweight champ Johnson was named for his second round kayo of Von Clay of Philadelphia.

Others listed for top performances included Paul Pender, Brookline, Mass., recognized as middleweight champion in two states and Europe but not by the NBA, which lists Gene Fullmer as titleholder. The NBA, ranking Pender as No. 1 challenger, praised Pender for a successful defense of his version of the crown against Carmen Basilio.

Others singled out included welterweight Jorge Fernandez, lightweight champion Joe Brown, middleweight Dick Tiger of Nigeria, welterweight Guy Sumlin, heavyweight Eddie Machen and light heavyweight Doug Jones.

Doug Harvey Awarded Norris Trophy

MONTREAL (AP)—Doug Harvey, veteran Montreal defenseman, today was named winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's outstanding defenseman for the 1960-61 season.

In receiving the award for the sixth time in the past seven campaigns, Harvey polled 162 of a possible 180 points in the voting by sportswriters and sportscasters in each of the six NHL cities.

Marcel Pronovost of Detroit was a distant runner-up with 52 points followed by Allan Stanley of Toronto 27 points and Pierre Pilote of Chicago, 24.

Player Leads Pack In Golf Earnings

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Money talks, goes the saying, and right now it's declaring loudly that Gary Player is the best professional golfer in the United States.

Even so, there's a slight echo coming back that Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa., isn't going to let it stay that way long.

Player, who now hails from Langhorne, Pa., has competed in 15 tournaments so far this year and won three for a total of $46,036.58.

However, Palmer, who won more than $80,000 last year to set an all time record, is within hailing distance. His victory in the Texas Open last weekend pushed his earnings this season to $37,225.00.

Bob Slevin to Study at Baylor

Junior High Football Coach Asks for Leave

Robert Lee (Bob) Slevin, head football coach at Salem Junior High School, announced today that he has accepted a graduate assistantship at the University of Baylor in Waco, Tex.

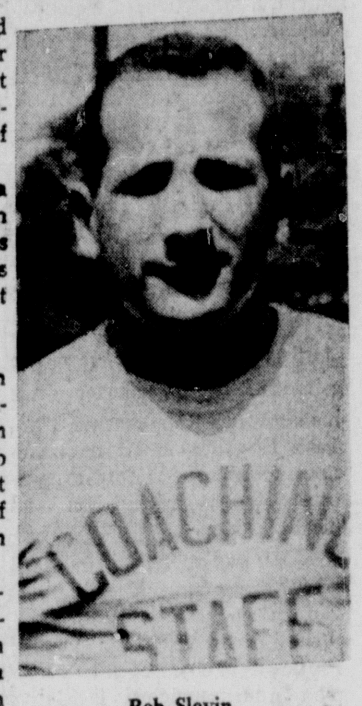

Slevin said he has requested a one year's leave of absence from his coaching and teaching duties here. The Board of Education is expected to grant the request at its next meeting on May 8.

A GRADUATE of Boardman High School and Ball State Teachers College in Indiana, Slevin took over the head coaching job at the junior high school here last fall and was assigned the task of building a football program in the 7th, 8th and 9th grades.

Showing plenty of spirit and desire, the 1960 team gave indications by the end of the season that in future years it may be a power to be reckoned with in the area. Salem Junior High football teams haven't won a game for several seasons.

Slevin also served as an assistant to Blaine Morton, head football coach at Salem Senior High School, last season.

AT BAYLOR, Slevin expects to pick up enough credits to earn his masters degree in physical education in one year. The assistantship will be worth $1,450. Slevin will be teaching nine hours of physical education classes. He also so will be taking six hours of classes. He will start in August.

Although he will not be an official member of the Baylor University coaching staff, Athletic Director and Head Football Coach John Bridgers has asked Slevin to help out with the coaching whenever his classes will permit.

"I really hate to leave Salem," Slevin commented. "I really think we have some of the finest coaches and on of the best athletic plants in Ohio."

10 Three-Year-Olds Entered

Four-And-Twenty Derby Prep Choice

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Four and-Twenty, owned by the Alberta Ranches, Ltd., of Canadians Max Bell and Frank McMahon, will be the big favorite today in the $15,000-odd Derby Trial Stakes and a class performance might make him the choice for the Kentucky Derby.

Ten-year-olds were entered for the 4th running of the one mile trial at Churchill Downs, and the bay colt ridden by Johnny Longden and trained by his son, Vance, opened as the 8-5 favorite.

Three years ago Calumet Farm's Tim Tam won the Trial Stakes, then came back to capture the derby. If Four-and-Twenty can handle his opposition impressively, he may go postward in the $125,000-odd Kentucky Derby Saturday with slight credentials over Mrs. Jack Price's Carry Back. Carry Back won the two $100,000 Florida races for 3-year-olds, the Flamingo and the Florida Derby, while Four-and-Twenty hung it on his foes in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby in California.

The latest Caliente derby odds make them the co-favorites for Saturday's mile and one quarter classic at 3-1. Carry Back will sit out the trial and wait for the derby.

Fred W. Hooper's Crozier is second choice in the Derby Trial at 3-1, and J. Graham Brown's He's a Pistol, full brother of Venetian Way, is next at 4-1. Venetian Way won the 1960 derby. Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Dr. Miller also is a threat at 8-1.

Others entered are the Red Oak Stable's Injun, T. F. Devoreux' Gayburn, Frank Kamp's Starx, H. C. Drew's Gay's Pal, Mrs. Joseph W. Brown's Prince Nerida and Kelly Hodge's Harry N.

Wampum Team Maintains Lead In Timberlanes' Event

Chewton Dairy of Wampum, Pa., maintained its lead over the weekend in Timberlanes' 11th Annual Bowling Tournament.

The Wampum crew's 3085 total held up although it was threatened by El Rock Construction of Youngstown who rolled into second place with a 3075.

To date, 568 teams have bowled and 105 of them are above 2890 which is believed to be low in the money. There are 799 teams entered in the tourney and entries are still being accepted.

George Sleba of Newton Falls owns the high actual series thus far. He put together a sizzling 664. S. Bozdech of Canton has the best actual single, a 269.

Here are the leaders:

FICTION

HARVEST ON THE DON by Mikhail Sholokhov. If you were reading much in the early forties, you can't have missed "And Quiet Flows the Don" and "The Don Flows Home To the Sea," for they were among the most popular novels of that time. After 20 years comes the third in the series, judged by critics to be equally good.

THE DOVE TREE by L. D. Clark. A thoughtful, well written story of a father and son who could never understand each other. The story begins with the illness and death of the boy's mother, goes on through the father's courtship and second marriage, meanwhile the son grows farther away from his father.

IF THINE EYE OFFEND THREE by Heinrich Schirrmbeck. A novel highly praised for its discussion of ethical and philosophical problems of the present time. The story concerns the long scientific training of the principal character, his mentor, and the pressures upon them.

THE BIG FAMILY by Vina Delmar. A tale based on the Slidell family from Colonial days to the twenties. Many members of the family held important positions in government and of course others were not known. Miss Delmar's work is always better than average in quality.

SLEEP IN THE WOODS by Dorothy Eden. New Zealand in the days of its early settlement forms the background for an exciting story of a new society being made in a new country, where a lady's maid can marry the richest man in the country. But this lady finds that her husband has other qualities far more worthwhile than his wealth.

THE ICE IN THE BEDROOM by P. G. Wodehouse. Stolen jewels, plots and counter-plots, adventures and mis-adventures occur in rapid sequence in this more than ordinarily funny story.

REVOLUTIONARY ROAD by Richard Yates. The marriage of a present-day couple in Suburbia. But this is not just the surface of it, this is deep-down probing and dissection of relationships between people.

NON-FICTION
SKYLINE by Gene Fowler. The last book by this famous newspaper man and friend of many other famous people. They all come alive and show us their true selves in this book of memories.

LIFE WITHOUT GEORGE by Irene Kampen. Two young divorcees, with a child apiece, move to the suburbs in Connecticut. The shambles that results is inevitable, but it is a lot of fun reading about it.

LEISURE-TIME FOR LIVING AND RETIREMENT by Margaret E. Mulac. Miss Mulac bases her book on the premise that a person who has never learned to use his leisure in satisfying ways will naturally be unhappy when he has nothing but leisure. Sound advice to all.

LADIES IN THE ROUND by Ann Goodrich. The entire contents of this book were overheard at a milk farm - a place for overweight ladies to go to take off the extra pounds they could take off cheaper at home. Very funny, true to life, too.

STORIES OF MODERN ITALY, edited by Ben Johnson. Twenty-six stories representing the major writers of modern Italian fiction.

MEMOIRS INTERIEURS by Francois Mauriac. Reflections on life by a great French author.

GREAT AMERICAN SCIENTISTS by the Editors of Fortune. Scientists are divided into the following categories - Physicists, Chemists, Astronomers, and Biologists. Actually the material is as much about the sciences as the scientists. Discussion is limited to the years since 1920.

JESUS OF NAZARETH by Gunther Bornkamm. A leading New Testament scholar of Europe writes of the coming of Jesus, his life and teachings, and their effect upon man.

FUTURE OF THE HUMAN MIND by George H. Estabrook and Nancy E. Gross. A discussion of the conscious and unconscious mind, hypnosis, extrasensory perception, and a chapter on how hypnosis might be used more effectively.

CONQUEST OF TENSION by Richard H. Hoffmann, and A. W. Pezet. The authors state that the purpose of this book is to discuss, in the light of modern research, your mental attitude toward the vast panorama of living.

PRINCIPLES OF CRIMINOLOGY by Edwin H. Sutherland and Donald R. Cressey. A new edition of a standard text, expanded and enlarged.

BUSINESS BAROMETERS FOR PROFITS - SECURITY - INCOME by Roger W. Babson. The latest edition of this very popular writer's book on investments.

EMPLOYEE COMMUNICATIONS IN ACTION by Robert Newcomb and Marg Simmons. The authors, a husband-and-wife team of management consultants, give their opinions on the best ways for management to communicate with employees, and benefits which can accrue to both from this practice.

THE NEW SCIENCE OF MANAGEMENT DECISION by Herbert A. Simon. Mr. Simon is Professor of Administration at the Graduate School of Industrial Administration, Carnegie Institute of Technology. Here he examines new techniques of using electronic devices in assisting the making of decisions.

HEALTH OF THE PRESIDENTS by Rudolph Marx, M.D. Careful study of his subject has enabled this author to write a fascinating chronicle about the personal health of each of the Presidents. It is interesting to conjecture how the course of history might have been changed if some of our former presidents had not been afflicted with the particular diseases at the particular times that they occurred.

FACES FINE FOR TIP

CINCINNATI (AP) — Richard Laswell of Cincinnati faces 30 days in jail and a $200 fine for giving police a phony tip in the death of a patrolman. Judge Gilbert Bettman set the sentence in Municipal Court Monday for Laswell, 32, on a charge of giving a false report. Laswell, arrested on a drunken driving charge March 12, said he was drunk and under influence of tranquilizers when he gave the false tip about the death of March 11 of Patrolman Donald Martin.

PLAN $100 IKE DINNER

CINCINNATI (AP) — Republicans of southwest Ohio and northern Kentucky plan a $100-a-plate dinner June 12 at which guest of honor will be former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a woman's page editor who has handled your copy ever since you started to write the column. This is the first time I've ever disagreed with you — violently, that is.

I refer to your advice to the father who held his 17-year-old daughter in his arms while she sobbed out her heartbreak after being dropped by her boy friend.

Psychologists agree that this thing called puppy love can be one of the strongest emotions a human being can experience. True, as you pointed out, high school romances involve much casual swapping of rings, pictures, sweaters and bracelets — a broken heart one day and a new steady the next. But mixed in with this sort of thing can be a real case of puppy love.

You berated the father for sitting down and crying with his daughter. You said he was derelict in his duty for not explaining to her that life can be plenty rough and that she should learn to roll with the punches. Well, Ann, I think you were much too tough on her — and on him, too. This, to her young mind, was a major tragedy and your lack of sympathy was a shock to me.—A.B.

Dear A. B.: Thank you for your letter. I'm delighted that you don't agree with me 100 per cent of the time because if you did, my column would not be interesting or provocative or useful.

Your point is well taken, and many others wrote to say essentially the same thing — but my advice stands.

I think the father of a teenage girl who has been jilted should not sit down and cry with her. Papa, of course, is the original sweetheart figure to begin with and some papas have a way of being unconsciously punitive toward their daughters' boy friends. This opens up a whole new can of worms.

The collapse of a very special romance can be painful.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

but life dishes out a good many disappointments.

The teen-ager who learns to develop a sense of balance and a sense of humor will do well.

The others will be wedded constantly to the crying towel. Thank you for writing and please do so again ... any time.

Hatchet Job

Dear Ann: We recently purchased a home in a lovely suburb. As soon as the moving men started to unload the furniture my new next-door neighbor came over with a hot pot of coffee and a basket of homemade biscuits. I thought this was a very friendly gesture.

Within the hour she gave me the life history of every family on both sides of the street. She said she knew I would want to "get off on the right foot" and it might help to know whom to avoid and whom to get friendly with. I never have heard such vicious gossip in all my life.

I don't want her as a friend. Yet I'm at her mercy because she is my first neighborhood acquaintance. I can see she's a "dropper inner."

How can I keep her off my neck and shut her up when she starts to gossip?—NEWCOMER.

Dear New: First, before she gets into the habit, ask her not to drop in without first phoning. Tell her you aren't always free to visit.

When she starts to hack away at people simply say: "What do you know about them that's good?"

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
